

The Rotariad

(Issued As a Supplement To The Edmonton Bulletin)

EDMONTON, ALBERTA, FEBRUARY 10, 11, 12, 1918.

THE ROTARIAN PRACTICES AND ITS PRINCIPLES

The principles and practices of Rotary are not entirely understood by those outside of its influence, both because little attempt is made to have them understood, and because the organization is new and unique, in a world of many organizations. It is a part of no cult, or sect. It asks for no subscription to a set of beliefs. There is nowhere discoverable in its constitution anything which seeks for the material advancement of the organization itself, or of its members. On the contrary, the whole scheme of Rotary is based on what it may do for others, on the service it may render both to individuals and to the community.

Of course, there are not wanting those who contend that in this evil world such an altruistic organization is almost too good to be true. But while Rotary makes no pretensions to being better than anybody else, it has most emphatically proved that it is true, and its members find much satisfaction in the abundant evidence which is offered that the organization is founded on the most correct of principles.

There are two ways of looking at life, two different philosophies of living, either of which may be adopted by any one of us. One is to conceive the world as owing us something, and to so order our activities as to get all that we can out of it. And the other makes us think of ourselves as owing the world something, and wanting to give the world something, and wanting to give it all that we can. Now, that is not a delicate spiritual distinction, nor indeed a religious distinction at all.

This choice between the philosophies of life is just the plain common sense about living, as the Bible sees it. There are a great many people who think of the Bible as an esoteric book, which has to do only with revelation, and with the idealistic side of life. And they spend all their time in trying to spin fantastic systems of interpretation of words which are really their own interpreters.

The Bible does have ideals, and it does deal with high spiritual matters, but it is also brutally matter of fact in a great many ways, and especially about such things as this. And it is wise for us to know just what it says about so important a thing as the philosophy of service. It does not say that you will go to hell if you adopt

FEBRUARY 23rd is Rotary's Anniversary Day and each return of that day brings before us in review the varied experiences and striking events of our growth and development during the past years of our existence.

Knowledge of what we are doing, co-operation with those by whose side we toil, service faithfully and chivalrously rendered according to our powers and the sphere of our labors—these are the precepts of Rotary; in them are happily blended the ideal and the practical heretofore so blindly kept apart, and by them are expressed the strenuous endeavor and Christian charity of a greater and better age than any that has gone before. That our example is as good as our precept, that our practices have squared with our principles, that our conduct has upheld our words, are conclusively shown by the steady growth in strength and influence of all our clubs. Not one club has lagged behind, no club officer has faltered at his post, however burdened with affairs. Rotarians all have kept the faith. And so in the confidence born of experience and with the high hope that supports all righteous aspiration, we turn our faces fearlessly to the future and joyously cry out: "Long life to Rotary!"

—Glen C. Mead, Past President, International Association of Rotary Clubs.

HEAD OF INTERNATIONAL ROTARY

REV. E. LESLIE PIDGEON, Winnipeg, President International Rotary, the first Canadian to head the Rotary organization.

Rotarians From All Over West in Edmonton Today

What is practically the first conference of Rotary Clubs in the 18th District is being held in Edmonton today. It is attended by Rotarians from every club in this extensive district, the largest in point of area in the whole Rotary organization.

The clubs represented are, Fort William-Port Arthur (a combined club), Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Calgary and Edmonton. This is the first time that any conference embracing an attendance from all of these clubs has been held, for, while last February a conference was held in Winnipeg, many of the clubs were not represented, and, as a matter of fact, two of the most active clubs in the district were not then in existence.

Rotary is considerable of a novelty in Western Canada, all the clubs with the exception of Winnipeg being but a very few years old, the Edmonton club, which is this year entertaining the delegates to the conference has been in existence less than two years. It is safe to say, however, that the influence of Rotary has been felt in a very beneficial way in the eight cities in which there are clubs in this particular district. The motto of Rotary is "Service," and the application of the principle of rendering service is as broad as the varied needs of mankind. Rotary takes hold of civic, national and personal projects which need a helping hand, and gives the needed assistance without at any time seeking credit or praise for its performance, but always doing it in the realization that "He profits most who serves best."

It is naturally expected that as a result of this conference, where experiences will be exchanged and plans for future activities discussed, there will be still further evidences of the helpful inspiration of Rotary in all the cities in which this wonderful institution exists.

You were selected for Rotary not because you were perfect; but because you were thought to be willing to expand. Blow up your tire.

THE EDMONTON ROTARY CLUB IS A LIVE ONE

The Edmonton Rotary club was established in March, 1916, and will, therefore, be two years old next month. It was instituted by J. Ryan, of Calgary, who was at that time district governor, and who had been in touch for some time with S. A. Dickson and some other Edmonton men who were interested in and impressed with the principles of Rotary.

The organization meeting was held at The Macdonald and was attended by fifteen men, who, with two others who were not present on that occasion, comprised the charter members. The first president was A. W. Challand, manager for northern Alberta of the McLaughlin Carriage Co., and C. E. Darby, manager of R. G. Dun & Co., was the first secretary—an office which he still holds.

The membership of the club has grown in a very satisfactory manner, until at present the club roster contains about ninety names, every one representing the head of an established business or a professional man in the city and bringing the Rotary a valuable contribution in the propaganda of community service.

During the two years since Rotary was established in Edmonton it has demonstrated its right to be considered one of the most potent factors in the elevation of the conception of the Rotary principle of service. It has been frequently remarked that business practice is now on a higher plane than it has ever been in the past, while the Rotary club, as an organization, has fathered and brought to a successful conclusion some important community projects. The Day Nursery has been the object of special consideration, and several handsome donations to that institution have come from the pockets of local Rotarians. Recently a minstrel show was given, and, aside from the fact that it was an acknowledged success from an artistic standpoint, about eleven hundred dollars were divided between the Day Nursery and the Convalescent Home as a result of the efforts of the Rotary "Cork" artists.

The present head of the Edmonton club is S. A. Dickson, barrister, while C. E. Darby is secretary, with L. G. MacHaffie, manager of the Bank of B.N.A., as treasurer, with the following directors: Dr. C. U. Holmes, A. W. Challand, J. L. Bond, J. F. Philip, C. W. L. MacKevie and M. J. Hutchinson.

ROTARY is called "The Organization of Service." There is no limitation or special sphere in which Rotarians shall serve. The fact that Rotary Clubs throughout the world have tackled so many lines of service to their fellow-men and achieved success therein is accounted for by the varied activities that occupy its respective members.

The privilege of belonging to a club that reaches into every branch of human endeavor in a community is in itself a splendid opportunity. How quickly such a club can feel the pulse of that community! And it would be strange, indeed, if its ear were not the first to hear the cry for help, the call to duty, and so pioneer the marshalling of forces for the onward and upward movements within that community.

Every normal man desires to be successful. What is success? Some one has said that success is happiness. Thus, the struggle that we see all about us is in reality but an endeavor to achieve happiness; and the measure of one's success will be according to how wisely he decided when fixing upon the things that would bring happiness to him.

Our members have discovered that the "Happy Lands" of the world are reached through service.

—Frank L. Mulholland, Past President, International Association of Rotary Clubs.

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES OF ROTARY

one of these systems, or heaven if you adopt the other one. The Bible is not a statute book; it is a revelation. It is not a set of laws which must be slavishly obeyed. It is a revelation of the law which is behind the laws; of the guiding principle which will enable us to choose the proper philosophy of life by stating for us the law of service.

The Law of Service.

This is not a law which demands obedience on pain of punishment. It is not that kind of law at all. Man would make that kind of law because he cannot make any other kind. This law is the sort that determines the constitution of things. It is a law which makes certain effects follow certain causes. It does not say that it is man's duty to himself or the State or his fellows to do certain things. It does not plead with men to do these things. It simply states the conditions and then leaves the thing for man to do or not as it pleases him.

The law is that a life governed by selfishness, by the absence of service, by the purpose of getting out of the world all that can be gotten without giving anything at all, will receive the punishment of emptiness. The more such a life takes out of the world, the less there will be in the life, and the end will be absolute emptiness. The life that is given over only to thought of itself and what it can get, never finds any satisfaction. Even while it is getting the things it thought so much worth while, there is a sense of dissatisfaction. Nothing ever really pleases the selfish life. The pleasures and riches which seemed so desirable lose all their glitter and charm when they are actually possible. No experience of life is more common, and none seems so difficult to impress upon the minds of men.

There seems to be a sort of idea in their minds that this punishment of emptiness is the punishment of a Deity who is jealous of their prosperity, a God who prefers to keep them in want or pain or misery for fear that they might get too powerful for him. But the real fact is that it is the operation of a law which makes man himself the architect of his own happiness, which puts him for this particular purpose, at any rate, in the place of the judge, and makes it possible for him to arrange his life so that it will be empty or full as the case may be.

Not a Negative Law.

For the law of service is not simply a negative law. Most of man's laws are negative, but not the laws which God has made to govern the universe. It is negative only because it has its positive side. And that is that the life which is given over to service, to the giving of something to the world, will receive, not as a return but as a consequence, a fullness of blessing and satisfaction which can come in no other way.

That is what Jesus was trying to make clear to his disciples here and in other talks which he had with them on the same subject. They seemed to confuse it sometimes with his gospel of salvation, just as men have always been inclined to confuse it. But it was a separate proposition, and he intended us so to think of it.

But I do not wish so much to impress upon you the existence and character of this law, as I do to point out some of the other things which this text has to tell us. And the most important of them all, the one thing which ought to be written most plainly so that all men must know and understand it, the thing which, as Rotarians, we ought to be very clear about, is the price of service.

The Price of Service.

The thing which was in the minds of the disciples was that they might ultimately get for themselves. And the thing which appears on the surface of this saying is the ultimate reward of those who give themselves in service. But behind that there is a very much higher truth, and that is that such service can be given only when the giver is willing to pay the price for giving it.

The price of service, of real Rotarian service, of the service which counts for anything in the world, is sacrifice. Nothing else will do. We must become actually the servants of those whom we seek to serve. There is the vital distinction which a great number of people fail to make. They are willing to give to any sort of charity, as they call it, and they seek to help the unfortunate by means of that charity, and there their ideas of service end.

But they have entirely missed the point of true service. True service is not charity at all. Service that is real takes no account of the circumstances of those it serves, but things only of the need.

It is one of the secrets of the hold Rotary has on those who belong to it that it has not confused service with charity, that it has not confused need with destitution.

On the contrary, it has often been found true that the more prosperous an individual or community became

JOHN IS DEAD

By C. H. (Cy) Green.

JOHN McPHERSON, after leaving the old country, landed in a small town in Kansas and started raising hogs.

He worked hard, and put in long hours, and within a couple of years the hogs commenced to bring revenue to John.

Then this frugal (perhaps too much so), honest Scotchman, (because John was honest to the penny), purchased some fine milch cows. John figured he could put the cows to pasture, he having acquired 30 acres at the end of six years, and that the skimmed milk for the young pigs would be just the ticket.

Subsequently John succeeded in making a contract with a Chicago packing company whereby the latter was to take so many hundred weight of hogs twice per month. John's profit was big. He knew the hog raising business, and was successful.

By this time it was twelve years since John landed in Kansas. He had acquired 180 acres, had a few over 4,000 head of hogs, 20 cows, the latest implements, etc.

The fellows in Chicago, though they who were buying John's hogs, got their heads together and figured they would be ahead of the game if they bought John out.

Forthwith a representative nosed to John's hog ranch. At the end of three days' parley, John had placed in his hand a check for $175,000—John turning over the whole skiboodle, pigs and all.

It was fourteen years to the day that John landed in the new country, when he got the big wad of kale.

He hadn't taken a vacation during all that time, except one afternoon when he went to a picnic down the road a few rods.

There's no use in dwelling upon the various ideas chasing through John's head as to what he would do, now that he was well heeled.

He bought a car, a large one, and planned a trip to the coast. Two days before the day set for John to leave the old haunts, he—well, John just up and died!

Yes, sir, passed away before the neighbors even knew he was sick. It's nigh onto two years now since they presented the flowers, and John not bein' a man who went around much, is rarely spoken of.

This story is told to point to the fallacy of waiting too long to begin to enjoy life. The true Rotarian takes his pleasures as he goes along—and gives pleasure to others at the same time.

FORT WILLIAM-PORT ARTHUR CLUB ACTIVE

DR. C. C. McCULLOUGH
President of the Fort William-
Port Arthur Rotary Club.

L. LAWRENCE (Larry) ROUTLY
Energetic Secretary Fort William-
Port Arthur Club

The Port Arthur and Fort William Rotary Club was organized by J. Lawrence Routly. The first meeting was held in the dining room of the Prince Arthur hotel May 17, 1916. The organization ceremonies being under the direction of Rotarian C. W. Opper and Rotarian C. McCarter, of Duluth. At this meeting twenty-three charter members were on the roll. This number has increased and today the club has fifty members. The first president was W. O. Matthews and the first secretary-treasurer Mr. J. Lawrence Routly, who was re-elected the following year.

The club, although yet in its infancy, has not let the grass grow under its feet, and during the last two years has taken an active interest in matters pertaining to the welfare of the city and district. It has assisted materially in helping the greater was the need for real service.

And the rendering of that kind of service costs more than any other kind. Charity is not sacrifice, and never has been. Charity is usually a division of surplus, either of time or money or effort. Service is the actual giving of something that is a part of the capital of life. And that is why Jesus used the words He did. He never used words carelessly, or without a full understanding of their meaning. He made them all count. And when He said that to be of real service we must become bond servants, He meant that we must actually give a part of our lives.

We must be willing to set aside our own lives, not because of the whims of those we serve, but because of the idea of service in our hearts, which cannot be satisfied with anything less than the best that there is in us citizens of Port Arthur to "carry on" its patriotic work in connection with the Great War.

On August 18, 1917, the Rotary Club passed its first mile stone in its career of progress and successful enterprise when it opened the Port Arthur-Duluth automobile road, and officially conferred on it the name "Scott Highway" in honor of Rotarian William Scott, in whose fertile brain the idea was conceived. The opening of the Scott Highway is perhaps the greatest event of the Fort William-Port Arthur club during its two years of life. The highway connects Port Arthur and Fort William with Duluth, is one of the most picturesque roads on the continent, and is now known the length and breadth of Canada and the United States.

The Rotary Club has been particularly active in work connected with the returned soldiers and the Port Arthur branch of the Canadian Red Cross. Last year the club succeeded in securing the Winnipeg Juvenile Entertainers which netted the Returned Soldiers Association of Port Arthur and Fort William $3,000. The club also made possible the raising of $5,000 for the Port Arthur Red Cross Society and the Women's Patriotic Auxiliary of Fort William, by staging a carnival on the exhibition grounds.

The club entertained on September 17 in Port Arthur, such noted personages as Past International President, A. C. Klumph, First International Vice-President B. McDowell, Third International Vice-President S. Botsford, International Secretary C. R. Perry and International Treasurer R. Chapin. On January 29 they entertained International District Governor Jeff Lydell, of Calgary.

One of the big things that the club has in view for the present year is the organization of the entire district for the production and conservation of food. The club in this is acting under the direct supervision of the Food Controller of Canada.

Dr. Crawford C. McCullough, the 1918 president, is an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist. He was born at Gananoque, Ontario, on April 30, 1878, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. McCullough. He was educated in the high school at Gananoque, Queens University, Kingston, and was graduated in 1904. He was house surgeon of New York and Boston hospitals, and studied in such noted metropolitan centres as Paris, Berlin, Leipzig and Vienna. He was in Germany three months before the outbreak of war. He opened offices in Port Arthur and Fort William in 1908. He is a member of the following clubs: Shuniah, Port Arthur, Country, Kamistiquia and the Royal Automobile Club of London, England.

J. Lawrence Routly, secretary, born at Mount Pleasant, Michigan, a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Routly. He was educated at high school and the Manitoba University in Winnipeg. He was advertising manager of Port Arthur Daily News in 1910 and entered the life insurance business with the Lancashire Insurance Co. in 1911. He transferred to the Imperial Life Assurance Company in 1912 as inspector from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and was promoted to branch manager of the same company in 1914. He is a member of the Shuniah and Kamistiquia clubs.

THEY ARE CALLING ME "JIM"

They are calling me "Jim" at the Rotary Club:

The boys who are friendly and true, Who hearken with zest to the words that I say,

Who has interest in all that I do. We are brothers and pals on the highway of life,

Forgiving each crotchet and whim. They know I am human and likely to err—

The boys who are calling me "Jim."

I am "Jim" in my home to the wife of my love,

Put the wide world is formal and cold,

And my soul cries aloud for the voice of a friend,

That tone that is sweeter than gold. So these Rotary men fill the void in my heart,

And the tide of despair quickly stem, I'm no longer alone in the crowd as I was,

For they're all of them calling me "Jim."

When I answer to "Jim" at the Rotary Club,

And some good friend gives me a hand,

I feel like a mariner on the wide main When he sees the first glimpse of a sail.

I must steer a straight course on the ocean of life,

In the wild gales my sails I must trim;

In the years that go by I must not disappoint

Those boys who are calling me "Jim."

—James W. Kelly, Denver, Colorado.

To My New Friend Bill

(By Edwin Martin Downing)

Lines to an unspent banknote, written by Dr. Downing, of the Rotary Club of York, and published originally in Popular Magazine.

Thou, Bill, are bluest and sunniest; At once the best and yet the worst Of all the myriad paper things. None other sordid misery brings Like thee, or e'er the rare delight That's his who uses thee aright.

Full fair thou art now, Bill, 'tis true; Clean-faced and crackling, crisp and new—

But all too soon thou wilt, I fear, A travel-stained, spent thing appear; Greasy and grimy, crumpled, worn, Bacteria-laden, limp and torn.

Hold, Bill! Hear thou a short preachment!

The text: Thou art only good when spent.

If idle thou wilt spotless stay, But canst no good achieve that way. "Spend and be spent!" This counsel heed.

In constant service find rich meed.

Then if in time that dost look back, What matter, Bill? Care naught! Be glad!

Doubt not, all hands will eager be Who've held thee once, to welcome thee

If, haply, once more on thy course They clasp thee—tattered, soiled or worse.

A Rotarian

Among the throng of men you meet, Regard the one who's hard to beat On any field of stress or strain. That calls for use of brawn and brain, And he's the one, the first, you'll see Reach for his purse if need there be; In good deeds always to the fore, And ever does his part and more, Nor asks for praise. A Rotarian.

ROTARIANS GATHER FROM ALL OVER THE WEST FOR ANNUAL CONFERENCE HELD IN EDMONTON

Three Hundred Visitors Represent Seven Clubs in Eighteenth District Conference—Concert and "Get-together" Reception at the Macdonald—Important Matters Coming up at Two Days' Convention.

Three hundred visiting Rotarians, wearing their purple and yellow identification badges and flashing "the smile which won't come off," the distinguishing sign of the members of the society everywhere, gathered in Edmonton last night to attend the eighteenth district conference. From Calgary, from Saskatoon, from Moose Jaw, from Regina, from Winnipeg, and even from far-away Fort William and Port Arthur they came, citizens in every walk of life, but all imbued with the same spirit and all determined to make the convention the most successful and noteworthy in the history of the organization. In many cases they were accompanied by their wives, daughters, sisters or other relations and the ladies were out to have every good time as their husbands or fathers were getting.

The visitors were welcomed by a numerous turnout of the local Rotary club and the officers and members, with the organized reception committee worked early and late to make the pilgrims from a foreign shore feel that they were fully at home.

Where the Clans Gathered

The Macdonald hotel which is the headquarters of the conference, was the rallying place of the clans and the lounge last night was packed full of a jolly, gossiping crowd. Old acquaintances from distant cities renewed their friendships and members who did not know one another at first struck up new intimacies in short order. Rotarians do not need to be introduced to each other. Every delegate has his name printed conspicuously upon the badge which he bears and John Jones of Saskatoon strikes up a conversation with William Smith of Port Arthur as easily as if he had known him all his life. The Rotarians were one happy family from the very start and the "getting-acquainted" part of the program was accomplished with ease and dispatch.

Governor R. D. Lydiatt, of the 18th District, was on hand last night and, with Secretary J. F. Philp, Chairman M. J. Hutchinson, President S. A. Dickson, and Vice-chairman C. W. L. MacKelvie of the Edmonton Rotary club, and the chairmen of the various committees, had all arrangements going swimmingly.

Many Calgarians Come

Calgary sent up a delegation of one hundred and twenty enthusiastic Rotarians, including Mayor and Mrs. M. C. Costello, Aldermen Ruttle, Freze and Marshall, City Engineer G. W. Craig and other well-known citizens of that place. Saskatoon was also represented by a large and active delegation.

The convention really began with the sermon given Sunday evening at the MacDougall Methodist church by Rev. Dr. Angus Graham, principal of the Boys' College at Moose Jaw. The service was attended by a large number of Rotarians, who enjoyed an exceptionally able address. Rev. Major George W. Kerby was to have spoken at the First Presbyterian church, but was prevented from coming at the last moment by the serious illness of his daughter.

Concert in The Macdonald

After the church services were over a sacred concert and reception were held at the Macdonald. It was a huge success in every way. Men and women belonging to the various clubs attending the conference were introduced to each other in the lounge room of the hotel after church service had been attended in the several churches, and then all separated to the dining-room which had been arranged for the occasion. Decorations appropriate met the eye on entering, and after being seated at many tables accommodating parties varying from four to twelve, a very fine program was presented. The opening number was participated in by the whole gathering, being the marching song of the Rotarians. The soloists were Mrs. Geo. Eaton and Mr. David Jones, both being heard to the best advantage, voices and selections being duly appreciated. Mrs. W. G. Atkinson and Mr. Wilbur Grant were the accompanists respectively. The Rotary quartette, consisting of Messrs. Eaton, Smith, Duggan and Jones, were warmly received and had to respond to several encores. The work of the quartette was very fine, and seldom has one heard a better blending of voices or harmony. A 'cello solo from Frank Emde, of the Macdonald orchestra, was a choice number on the excellent program, receiving much applause. The Macdonald orchestra were even above their excellent standard if that were possible.

REV. ANGUS GRAHAM, of Moose Jaw, who preached Sunday night in the MacDougall church and who will address the conference on the Boy Problem.

Announcements were made by Mr. Lydiatt, of Calgary, and M. J. Hutchinson, of the Edmonton branch, concerning matters pertaining to the conference.

Besides the strangers the following Edmontonians were noticed: Mr. and Mrs. A. Muir Frith, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pardee, Mr. John A. McDougall, Mrs. Wm. Inglis, Mr. and Mrs. Kelso, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ramsay, Mrs. N. D. Keith, Mrs. Venn Henderson, Mr. McKieson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Darby, Mrs. H. H. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Benson, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith, Mr. and Mrs. McCoppen, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McHaffie, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Eaton, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Wells, Mr. P. McLaurin, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. John Gillespie, Mr. James Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Emery, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Challand, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stark, Dr. and Mrs. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. David Jones, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Duggan, Mr. and Mrs. Dalison, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chauvin, and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hutchinson.

Mr. Albert Not Coming

Word was received by wire Saturday that Allen D. Albert, Chicago, past president of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, would be unable to be present at the convention here. His services have been requisitioned by the U.S. government and he has been compelled to cancel all engagements. An effort is being made to secure the attendance of one of the vice-presidents.

Membership of 599

The convention includes geographically speaking, Rotary District No. 18, which extends from the Rocky Mountains to the Great Lakes. In this district there are seven thriving Rotary clubs, all of which are represented. A membership of over 599 is represented in the Western provinces. The other clubs, besides Edmonton, which have sent delegates, are: Winnipeg, organized in 1910, with a membership of 178; Calgary, 1910, with 109 members; Moose Jaw, 1916, with 40 members; Fort William, 1916, with 50 members; Saskatoon, 1917, with 50 members; and Regina, 1917, with 36 members. The Edmonton club was organized in 1916, the third in chronological order, and now has a membership of 83. R. J. Lydiatt, of Calgary, is retiring governor of the district, and the election of a successor for the coming year will be one of the features of the convention program.

Important Features

One of the important features of the conference program will be the reports on the activities of the different clubs during the year. Speeches will be limited to ten minutes and it is expected that for concentrated interest they will be unsurpassed. Two of the outstanding addresses announced come on Tuesday. One is "Rotary's Responsibility in War-time Problems," by W. E. Scott, of Winnipeg; and "Rotary's Contribution Toward Making Canadian Citizens," by Prof.

"Sam" Dickson and "Charlie" Darby Hard Workers in the Edmonton Club

While not the first president of the Edmonton Rotary Club, S. A. Dickson may fairly lay claim to being "Father" of Rotary in this city. Several months before the local club was organized Sam had been in correspondence with the Rotary headquarters in Chicago, with a view to establishing Rotary in Alberta's capital city, and when Jim Ryan came from Calgary to get the club under way he had already lined up a fine lot of men who afterwards became the club's charter members. Sam Dickson is a successful member of the legal profession, a product of Toronto University and before coming to Edmonton practiced law in Fort Saskatchewan. He was elected to the presidency of the Edmonton Rotary Club in June 1917, and under his able direction the club has prospered in every way. In addition to his activities in the Rotary Club, Sam spends some of the rest of his spare time helping to manage First Presbyterian church, of which another Rotarian, Rev. Dr. McQueen, is pastor.

About the busiest man in any Rotary Club is the secretary, and there is no exception to this rule in the Edmonton club, of which the secretary is Charles Edgar Darby, who works for a living as manager of the local office of R. G. Dun & Co. Membership in Rotary seems to be a habit with R. G. Dun's men, the managers of all the western offices in Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton having joined the ranks of men who have adopted "Service" as their motto. "Charlie" has been secretary of the local club since its inception and injects into the office plenty of initiative and displays a fidelity to duty which has contributed in large measure to the success of the club in this city. "Charlie" Darby is a product of Western Canada, having been born in Winnipeg and has lived in the west all his life. Of course he is still young, but so long as there are firms and individuals on whom credit ratings are being made, "Charlie" is likely to be on the job.

W. H. Alexander, of the University of Alberta.

Without the advocacy of any radical social, industrial or economic reform the Rotarians will discuss subjects connected with the best way of making their personal citizenship count toward the general benefit of the community and the advancement of the nation, in line with the well-known motto of the society, "He Profits Most Who Saves Best."

Some Visitors

Some of the visitors who arrived Sunday were as follows:

How They Do It

"Ike," said Mrs. Partington, "how do they find out the distance between the earth and the sun?"
"Oh," said the young hopeful, "they calculate a quarter of the distance, and then multiply by four."

HATS OFF TO THE LIVE ROTARIANS IN CALGARY

Some Notable Accomplishments to Credit of Pioneer Club in Alberta

The Calgary Rotary Club is only an infant in the International Rotary family but it is a wide awake and progressive infant which has already done good work in the Rotarian field. The club was organized early in 1915 and thus is about three years old. During these three years it has had no reason to feel ashamed of its accomplishments for the members have always kept steadfastly before them the Rotary motto, "Service."

The first executive of the Calgary Rotary Club was composed of the following: President, J. S. Ryan; vice president, W. J. Watson; secretary-treasurer, Douglas Howland; directors: Tom Weir, Edward Vincent, George Kellaway and D. E. Black. The present executive is composed of: President, R. J. Lydiatt; vice-president, L. A. Cavanaugh; secretary, W. H. A. Thompson; treasurer, Gerald

"WHAT" THOMPSON,
Secretary of Calgary Club.

Gibson; directors, C. A. Larmour, Major G. W. Kerby, Bruce L. Robinson, P. Saunders, D. E. Black and G. H. Morton. During the last year the Calgary Rotary Club has accomplished the following: Adopted an orphan boy who has been sent to college and who will be educated and prepared for a successful business life at the expense of the club; sending prompt subscription to Halifax relief (Calgary Rotary Club was the first in Canada to do this and wired five hundred dollars to Halifax club day after disaster); gave Christmas entertainment and tree to eighteen hundred soldiers' children, funds for this were raised by minstrel show, which was put on for three nights and matinee, and which was the most successful ever held in Calgary. The club also furnished a room in the Convalescent Soldiers' Home.

R. J. Lydiatt, the president of the Calgary club is a "thirty-third Degree" Rotarian and a great deal of the success which has attended the operations of the club during the past year is due to his inspiration and wise leadership. In addition to being the head of the club he is District Governor of District 18, and in that capacity is presiding over the present conference. Jeff has been a resident of Calgary for a number of years, having been with the C.P.R. for some time, but latterly he has been manager of Senator Loughheed's fine theatre, the Grand, and in addition has a large interest in and manages the United Producing Co., a number of whose shows have appeared in the local Loughheed house.

The secretary of the club is "What" Thompson, and he is always on the job. He, with Jeff Lydiatt, attended the Atlanta convention of Rotary clubs in June and ever since has been boosting more than ever before for Rotary conferences and conventions. Bert, in professional life, is a chartered accountant, and is the Calgary manager for Edwards, Morgan and Co.

Only Way

"She married a man after an acquaintance of two weeks. Don't you think a girl foolish to marry a man who doesn't know her?" "It's the only way to get a husband, sometimes."

PRESIDING OVER CONFERENCE

R. J. (Jeff) LYDIATT, who, as Governor of District 18, is presiding over the big Rotary conference now in session. "Jeff" is also president of Calgary Rotary Club, and when he is not working at Rotary, is manager of the Grand theatre at Calgary, as well as the United Producing Co. The rest of the time he gives to his wife and family.

SASKATOON HAS YOUNG BUT LIVE CLUB.

ARTHUR MOXON
President Saskatoon Rotary Club

Saskatoon has a Rotary Club; a club that has placed Saskatoon on the Rotary map to stay and hold a prominent position. Although it is, perhaps, one of the youngest in the district, it has grown into a real live club and is well fulfilling the Rotary aims. The weekly luncheons go a long way to prove this. They are well attended. Among the membership of the club many of Saskatoon's live wires can be found and the splendid spirit shown by these Rotarians in other branches of endeavor has been brought to the club with the desired results.

The club was organized on August 14 and right away the fathers became busy and placed a heavily charged live wire at its head. Arthur Moxon, local manager of the National Trust Co., a Red Cross enthusiast and several other things, was given the job of president. Behind him they put J. D. Millar, of Campbell, Wilson & Millar. What Mr. Millar does not know about curling is not worth knowing. The same enthusiasm he put into the recent bonspiel in Saskatoon has been put into the Rotary Club. Mr. Millar

W. G. (BILL) MULOCK
Secretary Saskatoon Rotary Club

is one of the Saskatoonians who is always in the front ranks of movements for the betterment of civic conditions. W. G. Mulock, secretary-treasurer of the firm of Harley Henry Ltd., looks after the duties of secretary of the club. When a member receives his weekly letters he has a good laugh. The Rotary spirit of good fellowship shines all over his letters. His successor will have some job. R. R. Randall is the watch dog of the treasury.

A strong board of directors was elected at the organization meeting. Adamson W. C. Borlase, R. H. Potter, of the International Harvester Co.; E. A. Potter, Quaker Oats; W. F. Harman, proprietor of The Star, and Alderman H. L. Martin, of the H. L. Martin Lumber Co., are the big guns of the directorate. Machinery, break-downs, good stories and lumber, also office fixtures, have proven to be a good mixture on a board of directors.

The club has taken prominent part in a number of movements in the city. In the Victory Loan campaign the club as a whole did much good work to bring about the success of the campaign in Saskatoon. The members provided much advertising. They paid for space on the street cars. The boy scout and girl guide movements have been materially assisted. These movements were aided at a time when assistance meant life to them. The Halifax Relief Fund came in for the attention of the club and material assistance was rendered. In the campaign for the French Wounded Emergency Fund the club turned out in full force and canvassed.

The president, Arthur Moxon, is a busy man. He was president of the Saskatoon branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society last year and since the annual meeting of that organization he has taken a prominent part in the work of the society. He is a professor in the law school at the University of Saskatchewan. He is a graduate of the Dalhousie University and took a post graduate course in law and arts at Oxford. Secretary Mulock stated he is secretary and that is all. Good roads is his particular hobby outside of the Rotary Club.

WHAT ROTARY MEANS TO ME.

Charles D. Atkinson, Rotary Club of Atlanta, Ga.

Rotary peels. Layer after layer of pose comes off. The Carlylean clothes, wherewith a man protects himself from too close contact with other men, fall away. The flaccid handshake, the bromidic greeting, the simulated enthusiasm, are sheared off by Rotary. Finally the real man is reached. He is as glad to be found as one is to find him.

A Rotarian connotes success. In growing to success a man puts on armor. A little of it is added at a time, for he finds that he cannot attend to his business and give all the time his friends would use in casual talking, so he either acquires the McKinley knack of shoving them gently along, or he keeps them on the outer side of the rail. From that point onward some men keep thickening the armor until name takers, doorkeepers, secretaries and buffers make access to them a difficult feat.

Lots of business men, though, stay out in the open. These wear their armor all the time. Because they are easier to get near than the man in the inner office, their personal armor is thicker and more forbidding than that of the business man who sits well guarded in his sequestered sanctum.

Rotary is a naturalizer for the armored man. Quietly and quickly it starts the peeling process. Rotary noise, Rotary songs, Rotary foolishness, Rotary enthusiasm, Rotary interest in a fellow, Rotary militant to get done what ought to be done, and Rotary free of strut and cant, rips off the armorial layers as easily as isinglass is separated.

Then's the time a man becomes delightful. Then's when he tells a fair tale or gives a dollar with the joy of giving shining in his eyes, instead of its being bundled up in gruffness. It is the time when a Rotarian, instead of keeping the silence of indifference, passes along a suggestion, or a criticism without sting, which does the man who gets it a world of good. Then's when the will to play, more or less atrophied, becomes electric, and laughter bubbles out of what may have been tight-drawn lips.

This getting really to know, and so to love, a lot of handpicked men, most of all, is what Rotary means to me.

Rotary Don't's

Don't draw a check bigger than your bank balance. You'll get out of Rotary just what you put in.

Don't think you can know a man at the luncheons and cut him in church.

Don't think every man who visits your office or store is crazy about "small talk." Perhaps his time is as well filled as yours should be.

Don't make of Rotary just one big time. "Wild oats" has never been put on the market as a Breakfast Food.

Don't be stingy with your "pats on the back," for a kind word is like summer rain to the parched ground.

Don't get "The Price," or "How Much" mixed up with courtesy. Fresh air smiles on good manners. "They don't cost nothin' but gee—they taste mighty good."

Don't imagine you can get all the knowledge from the high brows. Remember it's the roughness of the grindstone that sharpens the axe.

Don't try to find all the flowers in the gardens of the rich. God sends the sunshine and rain to the lilies of the valley in back yards of the poor.

Don't shine up the seat of your trousers at the luncheon looking about the tables for someone else. Pay attention to Messrs. New and Lonesome at your right and left.

Don't fail to look upon yourself as the Creator intended you should—the material for life's great work which it would be a tragedy to mar or destroy.

Don't mark all your doings by the $ sign. The size of your fortune is more or less an accident.

REGINA: A LIVELY FIVE-MONTH BABY.

J. J. GALLOWAY, formerly of Edmonton, who is now president Regina Rotary Club.

E. E. ROGERS, who was largely instrumental in organizing the Regina Club and who is its secretary.

Regina Rotarians have made their influence felt to considerable purpose since a club was organized in August last, and the list of helpful work which the members have undertaken is growing each week. Although the membership at present is limited to 55 it is expected that before the end of the year there will be seventy-five influential citizens on the roll of the Regina club and the organization in a position to undertake more ambitious schemes for public betterment.

So far the club's record, although brief, is creditable. The initial idea of what Rotarians can accomplish when they try was given in connection with the Victory Loan parade, which eclipsed anything in the way of a public demonstration ever held in the province. Rotarians were given charge of the organizing of the parade and to such good purpose did the members work that 9 per cent of the vehicles in the city took part and the parade took over an hour to pass the city hall.

Christmas cheer was furnished in abundance to the children at the Babies' Home and Children's Shelter; $200 was sent to aid the stricken at Halifax; $200 was subscribed to provide an open air rink for the younger people, adjoining the Y.M.C.A.; the Big Brotherhood movement was endorsed by the club, and forty-two newsboys entertained at dinner, with the members pledged to watch their careers; and five members were placed on the Social Service council of the city, the strongest organization for social betterment in the province. These are the outstanding accomplishments of the club in its short history of five months and the members are just nicely getting into their stride.

The Regina club has been fortunate in its choice of officers. The president is John J. Galloway; vice-president, C. E. McQuaid; secretary, E. E.

Rogers; treasurer, Geo. G. Rooke; directors, H. A. Knight, Sr., C. E. McQuaid, S. C. Burton, H. D. MacPherson and H. L. Gage.

Mr. Galloway would prove a tower of strength to any organization and his services are in demand by a dozen boards. Born at Owen Sound, Ont., in 1873, he was brought up at Wiarton on a farm entering the services of the Merchants' Bank of Canada after three years with George W. Ames & Company. He has filled various positions in the bank at Galt, Mitchell, Stratford, Windsor, Toronto, Winnipeg and Portage La Prairie. His first branch managership was at Carnduff in 1902 and since then he has been appointed inspector for Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and later to the same position for Alberta and British Columbia. Early in 1915 he was appointed manager at Regina after a few months' rest to recuperate from a breakdown. He is vice-president of the Y.M.C.A., a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the board of managers of Knox Presbyterian church, a Past District Grand Master of the Manitoba Grand Lodge, Mystic Shriner, and a Knight Templar, and president of the Regina Character Analysis Club. In summer he golfs, plays tennis and baseball, while in winter he plays indoor ball at the Y.M.C.A.

Edward E. Rogers, the secretary, is manager for the Temple-Pattison Company, dental supplies, at Regina, and located here two years ago, after twelve years dallying with the automobile and dental trade on the Pacific coast, where he lived at Seattle, Vancouver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego. He was the man behind the movement which culminated in the formation of a Rotary Club here and is the most persistent Rotarian of them all. Baseball, canoeing and shooting are his recreations.

"WHAT ROTARY HAS DONE FOR ME"

ROTARIANS are sometimes asked, "What has Rotary done for you?" and it is a question not always easy to answer without having given it some consideration. One Rotarian, however, has given the answer so far as he is concerned, and it is no doubt applicable to many others. It is as follows:

"Rotary has broadened, as no other agency could, my views as to the relations between man and man, proving how pleasantly intimate they can become without ritualistic pledge or obligation.

"Dispelled austerity, melted the icicles and removed barriers incident to mere acquaintanceship; brought about an atmosphere so congenial and cordial that what was once mere acquaintance has, by pleasant degrees, ripened into intimacy.

"By pleasant contact, rubbed the blue off the grape of life and made it sweeter.

"Shown me that business, while apparently cold, callous and exacting, can have its pleasure periods.

"Given me a better opinion of my fellow men, for in Rotary I see their inner and better natures—the bright side of them.

"Opened my eyes to the fact that every man, no matter who, has a gentler nature, a bigger heart and a better self than is indicated on the surface.

"Thawed me out, warmed the cockles of my heart, drawn me closer to my fellow men, made my blood redder, forged unbreakable links in the chain of friendship, and proved more than all else that life is worth the living, if we so wish it.

"That is what Rotary has done for me."—Bridges Smith, Mayor, Macon, Georgia.

WINNIPEG CLUB IS A PIONEER

DUNCAN CAMERON, The present head of the Winnipeg Rotary Club.

The Winnipeg Rotary Club is a splendid example of what may be accomplished by conscientious work along Rotary lines.

The club began in a small way. Several prominent business men recognized the possibilities of a Rotary Club in Winnipeg and on Nov. 3, 1910, the first meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. and was attended by five men. A business and organization meeting held the following week elected W. A. Templeton, prominent hardware man, first president. Since then the club has continued to grow and has reached far above the expectations of its founders. The membership now numbers 200 and includes almost all the prominent business men in the city. Capable officers direct its activities and at a weekly lunch held every Wednesday past work is discussed and plans made for the future.

The present head of the club, Duncan Cameron, has been a prominent Rotary worker for a number of years. He is one of the best known of the city's business men. Among the offices he holds are: manager of the GORDON E. HUNTER, Secretary of the Winnipeg Club and a hard working officer.

D. E. Adams Coal Co., member of the School Board, and recorder for the Mystic Shrine.

The club has made itself felt in civic life. Among the many affairs which receive its attention are: the Knowles Boys' Home, which before receiving the attention of the Rotary Club, was practically bankrupt. The club organized into 12 teams and inside a week cleared off the deficit and had enough of a balance to pay the expenses of the home for the remainder of the year. They called the attention of the provincial government to the misuse which was being made of the grants provided by the Widows' and Orphans' Compensation Act and succeeded in having an educational campaign started and in securing the appointment of visiting housekeeper. A large sum of money was contributed to the various philanthropic and patriotic societies.

The club exists for civil betterment and the members individually are urged at all times to keep that as an ideal before them.

MOOSE JAW CLUB OFFICERS

HUGH ROBISON, President.

W. D. MCINTYRE, Secretary.

ROTARY PROMOTES PUBLIC GOOD

A Rotary club should be an especially efficient instrument for promoting the public good. There is absent from it membership all political rivalry, and that selfishness of property interest which so often defeats a measure or an enterprise whose adoption or whose consummation would be a benefit to the public. In place of that rivalry and that selfishness, there is an obligation to seek the public good and to serve it. And from a body of Rotarian membership made up of the broad-minded and experienced men of a community, upon whom rests a high obligation, should issue a judgment worthy to command respect and a supporting force which should have great influence in translating that judgment into an accomplished fact for the general good.

All over the country Rotary clubs are notable for their contributions of service to the public welfare, some of their contributions having been such as no other local organization was capable of making.

Brothers in Service.

He who comes to the Rotary table, comes as a brother servant, and not as a gluttonous barterer. He comes to give of himself, and not to gather greedy gold. He comes filled with the vision of the spirit of the day, in which men are seen as brothers, and society is seen as an organism of many members, to none of whom the greatest good can come until all are willing to render, and are capable of rendering, the maximum service.

He Tumbled!

He was a particularly tiresome and inquisitive old gentleman, and after politely replying to a number of questions, fired at him, the young flying officer, who unfortunately happened to be travelling in the same railway carriage, began to be a bit tired.

"That's a terrible poison that's just been discovered," he said to the old gentleman at last.

The latter pricked up his ears.

"What's it called?" he asked, excitedly.

"Aeroplane poison," said the airman.

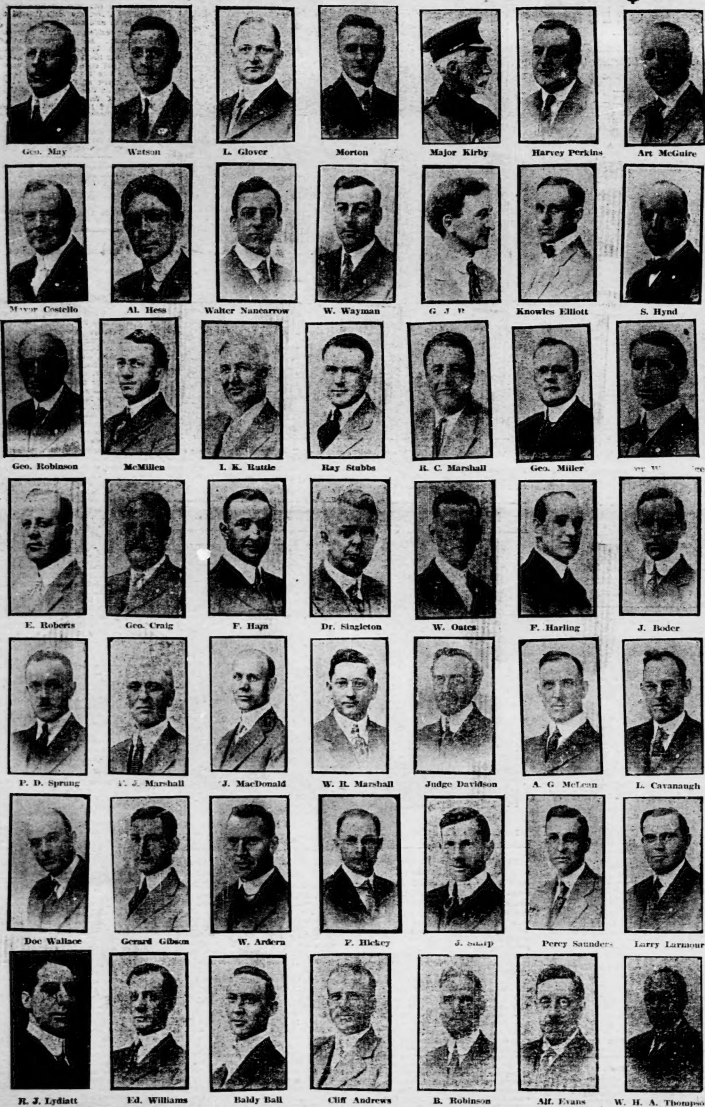

"Is it very deadly?" asked the other.

"I should say so!" was the reply.

"How much would kill a person?" went on the tireless questioner.

The flying man's eyes twinkled. "One drop!" he said. Then silence reigned.

Calgary Sends Record-Breaking Delegation to Edmonton Conference

EDMONTON CLUB'S GOOD LOOKING FIRST PRESIDENT

The honor of having been the first president of the Edmonton Rotary Club is one not to be lightly considered. This is the opinion of Arthur W. Chailand, who was elected to that office at the organization of the Rotary Club in this city, and held it until the annual election in June, 1917. Naturally he thinks the Edmonton Rotary Club about the best little club in existence, and certainly no small degree of credit for whatever good the club here has accomplished is due its first president, who was untiring in his efforts and unsparring in the time he gave to the cause of Rotary during his fifteen months in which he was the head of the local organization. Arthur Chailand, who before he settled down in Edmonton about ten years ago to look after the interests of two McLaughlin firms (McLaughlin Carriage Co. and J. J. McLaughlin, Ltd.), was a "Drummer," and has the distinction of having visited practically every town in Canada from Glace Bay to Victoria. He is satisfied now, however, to live the rest of his days in Edmonton, which he considers the best town in the Dominion—and he should know.

LORNE MACCHAFFIE, whose arrangements committee has worked perfectly.

CHAS. F. HARGRAVE, who, while he is chairman of the Farewell committee, has spread himself into the Greeting committee.

JAN RAMSEY, M.L.A. and C. W. E. MacKELTIE, chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the Publicity committee.
